

I am opposed to BPL because the potential for interference is too great. The power companies don't respond to interference complaints well now. What do they know (or care) about radio spectrum or amateur radio? There are many other options available for broadband access already, including WI-FI, DSL and cable. BPL is not needed.